Thank you for joining us for an engaging conversation with New York City-based artists Tatiana Arocha and Sarah Cameron Sunde who will discuss their environmentally inspired projects presented at Brookfield Place New York.

The discussion will be moderated by Kendal Henry, who has thirty years of experience curating exhibitions, specializing in public art projects across the globe, including Tatiana's artwork at Brookfield Place.

The panel will explore the ways each artist incorporates elements of earth and water in their practice to call attention to society's complex relationship with and impact on the environment.

Arts Brookfield is proud to work with a diverse range of artists to create unique works of art that are responsive not only to the environment in which they are presented, but also to the world in which we live.

The evening culminates with the announcement of the recipient of the 2023 Brookfield Place New York Annual Arts Commission.

BROOKFIELD PLACE NEW YORK ANNUAL ARTS COMMISSION

The Brookfield Place New York Annual Arts Commission allows artists the opportunity to develop their practice in a unique way — to create a completely new work for a public space that engages our communities in important conversations.

Arts Brookfield has supported artist commissions at Brookfield Place New York for almost 35 years. This year, for the first time, we are bringing our community together to formally celebrate the award. We would like to congratulate Tatiana Arocha as the 2022 recipient and look forward to announcing the 2023 award recipient at the end of the evening.

TATIANA AROCHA

Tatiana Arocha is the recipient of the 2022 Brookfield Place New York Annual Arts Commission.

For the project, Arocha created her first large-scale public sculptural work, Bajo el manto de la selva / Under the Cover of the Jungle, for the Winter Garden.

Her art practice explores intimacy between people and land, rooted in personal memory and her immigrant experience. Her work centers on community through public art interventions and trans-disciplinary knowledge exchange.

The current installation is representative of the artist's layered relationship with the ecology of Colombia, her home-country.
